The screenshot shows a GitHub repository page for 'test-builds'. At the top, a dark header bar contains a checked 'Show diff' checkbox, '1 of 3' files, and a dropdown menu showing 'index.html'. Below the header, the repository name 'test-builds' is displayed. The main content area shows a commit message: 'GitHub repository to test different Read the Docs builds scenarios. This line was changed.' The text 'This line was changed.' is highlighted in green. Below the commit message, there is a section titled 'Read the Docs configuration file used to build this docs:' followed by a code block containing a configuration file. The code block shows a YAML-like configuration with fields for version, build, os, tools, python, sphinx, and python:install. The line '- requirements: requirements.txt' is highlighted in green.
